AS THE NEWS BREAKS

[By Associated Press.]

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 16.—About 20,000 school teachers in Texas are affected by the recent announcement by Prof. W. F. Doughty, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, that there will be no apportionment of the available school fund made during the remainder of this calendar year, because of lack of funds. When the next apportionment is made next January the State, it is said, will be four months in arrears in payment of teachers' salaries—about $2,000,000.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 16.—Hearing of an application for the dissolution of the injunction prohibiting moving picture shows here on Sundays was to come up in the Sixty-seventh District Court today. The movies here have been closed under an injunction for some time.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 16.—Laying of the cornerstone of the new Oklahoma capitol building was to be attended by all State officials here today. Appropriate celebrations were to be carried out. Today is the anniversary of Oklahoma Statehood and the occasion was generally observed as a holiday.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 16.—Polls were opened here today for the election, by member banks, of two directors of the Dallas (Eleventh) Federal Reserve Bank. The vacancies to be filled were caused by the termination of the terms of John T. Scott of Houston, a class A director, and Frank Kell of Wichita Falls, a class B director. Their terms expire December 31, but it was necessary to hold the election well in advance.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 16.—That a greater knowledge of agricultural subjects may be instilled into the minds of the school children of Texas, Fred W. Davis, Commissioner of Agriculture, has inaugurated a campaign which he believes will prove successful. The plan is to reach school teachers themselves through a series of bulletins issued from time to time by the Department of Agriculture; the bulletins to contain a form of lecture on agricultural subjects, which will, it is planned, become part of the course of studies. Mr. Davis has requested every county school superintendent in the State to send him a list of teachers in their districts in order that these bulletins may be mailed to them. Particular attention, it is said, will be paid to children in rural districts, of which there are nearly half a million in Texas.

CAUSE AND CURE FOR PELLAGRA

Report issued by Public Health Service—Caused by Insufficient Food.

Announcement was made at the Treasury Department that as a result of continued research and experiments of the Public Health Service, both the cause and the cure of pellagra have been discovered, and that the spread of this dread malady, which has been increasing in the United States at a terrific rate during the past few years, may now be checked and eventually eradicated. Assistant Secretary Newton, in charge of the Public Health Service, expressed great interest in the discovery and regards it as one of the most important achievements of medical science in recent years.

Pellagra has been increasing alarmingly throughout the United States during the last eight years, and it is estimated that 75,000 cases of the disease will have occurred in the United States in 1915, and of this number at least 7,500 will have died before the end of the year. In many sections only tuberculosis and pneumonia exceed it as a cause of death.

The final epoch-making experiment of the Public Health Service was carried out at the farm of the Mississippi State penitentiary, about eight miles east of Jackson, Miss., and together with the previous work of the service completes the chain in the prevention and cure of the disease. The work at the Mississippi farm has been in charge of Surgeon Joseph Goldberger, and Assistant Surgeon G. A. Wheeler of the United States Public Health Service. The farm consists of 3,200 acres, in the center of which is the convict camp. The final experiment was undertaken for the purpose of testing the possibility of producing pellagra in healthy human white adult males by a restricted, one-sided, mainly carbohydrate (cereal) diet. Of eleven convicts who volunteered for this experiment, six developed a typical dermatitis and mild nervous gastro-intestinal symptoms.

Experts, including Dr. E. H. Gallows, the secretary of the Mississippi State Board of Health; Dr. Nolan Stewart, formerly superintendent of the Mississippi State Hospital for the Insane at Jackson; Dr. Marcus House, professor of dermatology, medical college of the University of Tennessee, Memphis, Tenn.; and Dr. Martin R. Engman, professor of dermatology in the Washington Medical School, St. Louis, Mo., declare that the disease which was produced was true pellagra.

Prior to the commencement of these experiments no history could be found of the occurrence of pellagra on the penitentiary farm. On this farm are seventy-five or eighty convicts. Governor Earl Brewer offered to pardon twelve of the convicts who would volunteer for the experiment. They were assured that they would receive proper care throughout the experiment, and treatment should it be necessary. The diet given was bountiful and more than sufficient to sustain life. It differed from that given the other convicts merely in the absence of meats, milk, eggs, beans, peas and similar protein foods. In every other particular the convicts selected for the experiment were treated exactly as were the remaining convicts. They had the same routine work and discipline, the same periods of recreation and the same water to drink. Their quarters were better than those of the other convicts. The diet given them consisted of biscuits, fried mush, grits and brown gravy, syrup, corn bread, cabbage, sweet potatoes, rice, collards and coffee with sugar. All components of the dietary were of the best quality and were properly cooked. As a preliminary, and to determine if the convicts were afflicted with any other disease, they were kept under observation from February 4 to April 9, two and a half months, on which date the one-sided diet was begun.

Although the occurrence of nervous symptoms and gastro-intestinal disturbances were noted early, it was not until September 12, or about five months after the beginning of the restricted diet, that the skin symptoms so characteristic of pellagra began to develop. These symptoms are considered as typical, every precaution being taken to make sure that they were not caused by any other disease. The convicts upon whom the experiments were being made, as well as twenty other convicts who were selected as controls, were kept under continuous medical surveillance. No cases of pellagra developed in camp excepting among those men who were on the restricted diet. The experiments have therefore drawn the conclusion that pellagra has been caused in at least six of the eleven volunteers as a result of the one-sided diet on which they subsisted.

On the basis of this discovery, the States of Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida have laid their propaganda through their respective boards of health for the eradication of the disease.
